- 1) Review your award letter to see how much financial aid you received to apply toward your tuition and fees. This is how much you have to spend to begin your freshman year.
- 2) Using your expense ledger as your guide, visit each department and make decisions about tuition and fees, room and board, athletics, student ID, books, parking permit, technology, and health insurance.
- 3) As you make decisions, mark the amount you spend in the “Amount” column of your ledger and deduct what you’re spending from your rolling balance (the amount on your award letter) as you move from one department to another.
- 4) When you’ve visited each department, total your “Expenses” and visit the Financial Aid Office in case you need a student loan OR you need to rethink some of your expense. (Hmmm... could you live with a cheaper option?)
